

Tracy Nelson

I grew up in Albuquerque and earned my Business degree from New Mexico State University. After meeting my husband, Mike, our life as a military family carried us across the country, fostering adaptability, service, and a deep appreciation for the value of community. In 2015, we returned to New Mexico to settle back home. I have experience working with nonprofit organizations and civic groups in administration, communications, event coordination, and organizational leadership and support.

We have one son who is currently in college. My faith and values guide my commitment to family, service, integrity, and the principles that strengthen our communities and protect individual freedom.

I am interested in serving on the Rules Committee, having spent several years studying the rules and developing an understanding of both their importance and the challenges many members face in navigating them. I value contributing in practical ways and supporting the work where help is needed, and I believe the party is strongest when members work together in support of its mission.
